Hey David,

It's Naji here, i'm a community manager at Beams. How are you?

I was intrigued by your profile and very interested in your voice memo on Anchor and online radio.

I'd love to hear a bit more about you and your experiences using social audio and wondered if you would be open to answering a few questions on a short call or via email? I promise to keep it short and sweet and would be super grateful for your time!

Let me know if this could work for you anytime this week.

Thanks and hopefully speak to you soon :)

Naji

Naji, hey!

Thank you so much for reaching out! Seriously - emails/asks like this are always just a source of job for me, which might be pitiful lol. I have been coming to realize that I might actually be a pretty reputable authority on social software, generally, for whatever that's worth, yet - as you might imagine - I very rarely get the opportunity to talk about it with others who are invested in any meaningful sense.

I guess what I'm really saying: I would be very open, yes, to talking about it at any length, to be honest. I have still not gotten around to thoroughly exploring Beams, yet (it's on my todo list,) but having just popped back into the app for the first time in a good while... My goodness! It certainly looks like you actually intend to continue building!

If I have any insights to provide, I would love nothing more to do so for such a project, so.

I have been working from home under my own timetable, so I am stupidly available. After some errands in just a moment, I'll probably be available to chat tonight in a few hours, if you'd like.

Otherwise, I have an appointment until 10 AM, my time (CST GMT-6,) and should be free afterwards. I think audio and/or video would definitely be preferable... I have too much to say lol.

Also worthy of note: I am literally on all platforms, just about, so I'd insist the actual service/medium of the conversation(s) should be your preference.

Anywho, thank you again! I look forward to it!

Uh very important correction: that is... Emails like yours are always a source of joy, not "job." lol...

Hey David,

Great to hear from you and thanks for your message!

Let me know if a Zoom call today at 12pm your time could work?

Yes we've definitely been busy this end - if we have time I'll share 1 or 2 of our WIP designs with you when we speak too.

Really looking forward to chatting with you :)

Thanks and all the best for now,

Naji
